IT organizations are continuously challenged to keep up with evolutions in business and technology, while finding solutions that will simplify and lower the cost of managing their systems. Oracle Enterprise Manager is Oracle's integrated solution for administering and monitoring applications and systems, providing enhanced manageability and automation both for your Oracle Grid and for non-Oracle management frameworks and middleware.

About Oracle Application and System Management

Oracle provides tools to enable the performance and availability of applications, resolve problems quickly if they occur (to minimize impact), contain the ongoing costs associated with managing applications, and align IT and line-of-business priorities so that resources are applied to activities that generate the most business benefit. Oracle's consultants specializing in application and system management help your organization implement solutions based on this technology.

Key Benefits

Oracle's application and system management solutions—based on Oracle Enterprise Manager with Oracle Grid Control—bring your organization the following benefits:

- Robust top-down application management to provide an accurate assessment of how your business services are running
- Complete technology stack (database, middleware, application, and the infrastructure they run on) management and monitoring to properly manage all relevant components
- One integrated application to provide decreased training time, greater productivity, and better problem isolation

How We Do It

Oracle Enterprise Manager addresses the key challenges of maintaining employee productivity and customer satisfaction for managing Oracle based applications by:

- Enabling the performance and availability of the applications
- Resolving problems quickly if they occur, in order to minimize impact
- Containing the on-going costs associated with managing the applications
- Aligning IT and line-of-business priorities so the resources are applied to activities that generate the most business benefits
