Fujian Mobile Communications Company Limited

Fujian Mobile Communications Company Limited (FMCC) is a wholly owned subsidiary of Hong-Kong-based China Mobile Company Limited. Established in 1999, it operates nine city branches and 60 regional branches across Fujian province. Fujian Mobile provides wireless voice, data, and other value-added services to 6 million subscribers.

Challenges

- Consolidate several information management systems on a single technology platform
- Integrate different systems, services, data, and Web sites

Solution

- Established a uniform information management platform based on Oracle Application Server technology.
- The new platform scales easily, reduces risk, and supports the entire enterprise
- Boosted entire system performance using Oracle Application Server Web Cache, which uses state-of-the-art caching and compression technologies to optimize application performance
- Implemented Oracle Internet Directory (OID), providing advanced user management and single sign-on capabilities
