Welcome to Java Magazine, one of Oracle’s newest and most significant investments in the continuing health and growth of the Java technology ecosystem.

This publication, which is designed from the ground up to fulfill the full reader-engagement promises of digital publishing, is an essential source of knowledge about Java technology, the Java programming language, and Java-based applications for people who rely on them in their professional careers, or who aspire to.

That’s an ambitious goal, and we’d never be able to, or even desire to, reach it on our own. Rather, the entire Java community is directly and transparently involved in the editorial process; in fact, only a minority of authors and contributors will be Oracle employees. Every lineup will contain an all-star list of contributors from across the ecosystem.

So although there are other examples of publications that bring you news from the world of Java, there are no other examples that combine the voice of the Java “steward” (Oracle) with the voices of the rest of the community (developers, ISVs, device manufacturers, users, and students) in an innovative, all-digital package. And we wouldn’t want it any other way.

—Justin Kestelyn, Editor
