Enhance your Black Friday/ Cyber Monday planning strategy

Deals and discounts drove greater sales

The busiest shopping weekend of the year is upon us, and while consumers continue to face challenges with ongoing inflation, we still expect to see a steady rise in 2023 retail growth - with a predicted 4.5% increase in sales across the entire holiday season!

Despite increased sales, we anticipate consumer shopping behavior to be as price sensitive as they were in the previous year, when aggressive discounting was the only way to win over shoppers. For instance, categories like electronics climbed from an 8% discount in 2021 to a 25% discount in 2022 to land a coveted spot on shopper’s gift list. It would also be wise to get ahead on promoting your Black Friday deals as consumers increasingly begin shopping for gifts as early as October, seeking out retailers with splurge worthy sales – like Prime Day - to stretch their holiday budget.

Reach the right consumer, in the right environment, with the right message

To reach consumers while they peruse highly relevant Black Friday and Cyber Monday sale guides, utilize a context partner that understands the true nature of content, like Oracle Contextual Intelligence.

To take your approach beyond the open web, tag in Oracle Advertising audiences, which are enriched with past holiday purchase behaviors, to help you reach relevant consumers across connected TV, social channels, streaming audio and more.

If your brand is utilizing a 1st party approach, Oracle OnRamp can help you target past customers, or create LAL audiences founded in holistic data points like demographics, lifestyle choices, and purchase habits.
