Give your Father’s Day campaigns the special treatment

From dad jokes to landscaping tips, you can always count on dad to be there when you need him the most. Last Father’s day, consumers planned to celebrate dad with splurge-worthy gifts, cards, and brewery outings; and with the past two years’ expected spending hovering around $20 billion, we expect this Father’s Day to be just as big.

Pull together an inspired data-driven Father’s Day campaign by combining Father’s Day purchase trends paired with helpful targeting recommendations

Big Spenders

25–44-year-old consumers planned to spend over $244 on dads last year, leaning towards higher-priced gifts like clothing, and electronics, paired with cards or special outings. They are also more amenable to advertising as nearly half, look to retailers to guide their gift inspiration. Target these consumers accurately for an increased ROI with Oracle’s Demographic segments layered with Father’s Day shoppers.

Gifts Galore

Greeting cards are always the number one planned purchase, however secondary purchases like special outings, clothing, and gift cards held the majority of spend, bringing in over $3.4, $3, and $2.5 billion respectively last year. Find those who are more likely to spend on high ticket items, like electronic wearables or baseball tickets, with Oracle’s purchase-based audiences, as the best predictor of future behavior is past behavior.

Father’s Son

Men tend to spend big for both Mother’s Day and Father’s Day, with an average spend of $200, a whopping $55 more than women spend. Men were also more likely to celebrate Father’s Day than women, with 77% of men confirming they’ll be buying for their father, husband, grandfather, brother, friend, or another relative. To target Father’s Day buyers with the right creative, utilize one of Oracle’s insight tools to take a deeper holistic look into your consumers through 1st party CRM files or 3rd party purchase audiences.

Perfect Presents

While 44% of consumers want to find a unique gift, and 37% would like a gift that creates a special memory, most consumers purchased within traditional gift categories such as special outings, gift cards, clothing, electronics, sporting goods, personal care, or home improvement. To position your product as the “it” item of the season, utilize contextual targeting to surround relevant articles like gift guides, as people search for the perfect gift.
