Be thankful for foodies this Thanksgiving

With traditions in family feasts, parade outings and football tailgates, Thanksgiving is one of the largest food-focused holidays of the year. Unfortunately, inflation and the avian flu have continued to drive up the price of turkey, potentially cutting into the budget of the glutinously delicious sides and celebratory sparkling beverages. Whether your consumer is toting a crockpot across state lines or hosting an indulgent dinner party at home, Oracle Advertising can help your brand stand out over the holiday weekend!

Setting the table
Similar to last year, Americans may be getting ready to stretch their budget to set the table. The cost of turkey has continued to increase, contributing to 88% of consumers cutting a dish from their Thanksgiving table altogether. To make the coveted shopping list, leverage a blend of Oracle’s past-purchase audiences to target likely buyers, and Oracle Contextual Intelligence segments to surround recipes as consumers plan the big meal.

Splurge worthy dinners
If you’re selling indulgent ingredients, like a high-priced pinot noir, black truffles, or charcuterie, look no further than Millennials, who spend twice as much on the big day when compared to their baby boomer counterparts. By targeting consumers with Oracle’s CPG transaction-level data, you can reach buyers based on item category, brand, and more.

Holiday travel
Over 112 million Americans planned to travel for Thanksgiving in 2022, and while some may have only gone a short distance, 74 million expected to spend over $500 in expenses to gain a seat at the Thanksgiving table. Oracle contextual segments can help you surround travel content while your customers make arrangements, while Oracle audiences can target those who typically travel during the Thanksgiving holiday.
