- Capture of key usage, data and infrastructure characteristics of your instances, by leveraging Oracle tools
- Development of analytics business case focused on business benefit associated with new functionality and reduction of customizations
- An actionable analytics plan and roadmap that allows you to launch your Analytics initiative immediately

KEY BENEFITS

- Identify and confirm high-value analytics benefits and associated high-impact recommendations prior to committing funding.
- Understand the new functionality inherent in the latest Oracle Business Analytics release specific to your business processes.

Your Oracle Business Analytics may be an underutilized capital investment, if your organization has not taken advantage of the full business value available in the latest releases. With Oracle Consulting Advisory for Oracle Business Analytics, our industry-leading experts will identify opportunities for you to better leverage your Oracle investments and to improve your organization's effectiveness, efficiency, and agility, and to quantify the value in doing so. Leveraging our proprietary framework and tools, we'll explore your current Oracle Business Analytics environment, the potential benefits of migrating or upgrading to a newer release, replacing costly customizations with available out-of-the-box functionality, and improving your solution's overall performance and reliability. At the end of this planning project, we'll provide you with a clear roadmap and business case for improving your agility in addressing your Analytics needs, offering the latest best-in-class functionality, and dramatically reducing the costs associated with maintenance and administration.

Oracle Consulting Advisory for Oracle Business Analytics Overview

Our service begins with a thorough review of your platform's current state, leveraging our industry-leading framework and tools. Key areas on which we'll focus include:

- Business goals and processes supported
- Oracle Business Analytics products and modules implemented
- The level of configurations and customizations
- User experience and usage analysis
- The backlog and throughput of planned enhancements
- Environment performance, stability, and reliability

After gathering the necessary inputs, we provide you with a read-out that describes the "current state" of your analytics platform. Next, through workshops and discussions facilitated by Oracle experts, in conjunction with your team, we'll generate a roadmap for executing our recommended actions and the benefits your organization will receive, to support your internal decision-making process. You can count on Oracle Consulting to best serve your interests of speed, value and results. This service is available for all Oracle Business Analytics product families and modules.

- Align business objectives against enabling technology before engaging in detailed technology discussions.
- Analyze your current environments, configuration customizations, extensions, modifications, and integrations in a structured manner.
- Leverage the analysis and findings to enable a quicker start to the actual analytics project activities.

Service Details

Oracle Consulting Advisory for Oracle Business Analytics is a high-impact project that provides an in-depth review of your existing BI application footprint, customizations, infrastructure, and business processes. It produces an actionable set of recommendations for your business case, analytics roadmap, analytics execution, and complexity/customization reduction. At the end of this service, you can immediately launch into the execution of your next analytics initiative. Oracle Consulting Advisory for Oracle Business Analytics is designed to:

- Assist you in making the business case for implementing or migrating/upgrading to the next Oracle release
- Review the existing support issues with Oracle Support and with your IT staff in order to identify ways to improve, automate and streamline your business processes
- Identify areas for lowering TCA through simplification and consolidation of customizations and manual workarounds.

Based on the findings of this advisory, Oracle Consulting will recommend effective solutions that will help maximize the value of your Oracle Business Analytics solution. Beyond building a business case for upgrading, these recommendations may include, but are not limited to:

- Analytics configuration modifications
- Implementation of new functionality or net new modules
- Review of new release functionality on existing modules
- Recommended changes in your business process and user education improvements
- Recommendation that a Technology Assessment be performed if the business process "pain points" appear to be related to a technology sizing and/or configuration issue.
